Palestinian bases blasted as SLA pushes towards Sidon

Israel launches massive air raids on Lebanon

SIDON, Lebanon, Oct 26, (Reuter): Israeli jets blasted Palestinian bases in Lebanon today as Israel's local militia allies launched a ground offensive towards Muslim and Palestinian lines in the port of Sidon.

Air strikes killed 15 people and wounded 40 in bases near Miyeh Miyeh refugee camp, a Palestin-ian official said, while one commando was reported wounded in other raids on areas close to Beirut.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli Army spokesman said ali Israeli jets returned safely from the raids, in which he said "terrorist" targets were destroyed.

Artillery

About 200 militiamen of the Israeli-backed South Lebanese Army (SLA), supported by armoured vehicles, launched a two-prong offensive from their stronghold of Jezzine, security sources in the town 20 km (12 miles) east of Sidon said.

They said the SLA exchanged heavy artillery fire with Palestinian commandos and the Sunni Muslim Popular Liberation Army (PLA), dug in around the southern port of Sidon.

Saudi diplomat shot dead in Ankara

ANKARA, Oct 26, (Reuter): Police today hunted for the killer of a Saudi Arabian diplomat in Ankara as Turkish authorities questioned three Iranians suspected of kidnapping an Iranian dissident in a separate incident.

Second Secretary Abdulghani Beddawi was shot in the head and chest by an unidentified gunman outside his Ankara home last night in an attack diplomats said bore the hallmarks of a professional gunman.

PLO urged to accept UN Resolution 242

CAIRO, Oct 26, (Agencies): Jordan's King Hussein advised the PLO to accept the UN Security Council's Resolution 242, which sacctions Israel's right to survival, as the basis of negotiating the boundaries of the projec-ted Palestinian state, a news magazine reported today.

The magazine Al Mussawar, which has close government connections, said Hussein provided the advice to PLO chairman Yasser Arafat at last weekend's summit at the Jordanian port of Aqaha that also included President Hosni Mubarak.

The magazine's editor Makram Mohammed Ahmed, who was at Agaba for the summit, wrote that Hussein argued that the PLO's attempt to revive a 1947 UN plan dividing the British-mandated territory of Palestine in two Arab aod Jewish states was not adequate. The magazine did not explain

Egypt's position on the issue. although it appeared to be similar to Jordan's. Egypt repeatedly advised Arafat in the past to accept Resolution 242. Reservations Mubarak, at a news conference yesterday, also expressed reservations regarding the revival of the UN partition plan, saying it did not specify the houndaries of the projected Palestinian state. The partition plan awarded more territory to the Arabs than the occupied West Bank and Gaza, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in 1967. The revival of this plan, or General Assembly Resolution 181, must be supplanted by acceptance of Resolution 242 as the basis of negotiating the boundaries of the projected Arah state, Hussein contended, accor-Kuwaitis donate $1 .5m to rebuild Faw

BAGHDAD, Oct 26, (Reuter): Kuwaitis have donated more than $1.5 million to rebuild the small southern Iraqi town of Faw, shattered in the eight-year war with Iran, an Iraqi newspaper said today.

The ruling Arab Baath Party daily Al Thawra said Kuwaitis had given KD385,000 ($1.54 million) to rebuild the town, 90 km (50 miles) southeast of the port city of Basra.
Iraq last month launched an international drive for money to rebuild Faw, regarded by Baghdad as a national symbol of victory over the Iranian forces which held it for two years. Iranian troops stormed the disputed Shatt Al Arab waterway dividing Iran and Iraq in February 1986 and occupied the battered town and part of the Faw peninsula at the head of the Gulf. Surprise

In April, just four months before a UN-ordered ceasefire silenced the guns, the elite Iraqi Presidential Guards spearheaded a surprise assault on Faw and wrested it from Iran. Iraq has hailed Faw, the first town torn from Iranian control, as a symbol of its victories and sacrifices.

Iraqi television has shown hundreds of people in Baghdad and the city of Mosul, 350 km (210 miles) to the north, handing in cash for Faw, which was of great strategic importance before the war.

Two giant supertanker offshore terminals were built during the oil boom of the 1970s about 20 km (12 miles) south of Faw town, surrounded by sand and mudflats on Iraq's Guif coast.

Meanwhile Iraq said today Iran was behaving like a carpet trader by offering to swap planeloads of wounded prisoners of war (POWs).

"Iranian officials are treating human beings as if they are carpets or commercial commodities when they talk about the exchange of a plane full of wounded Iraqi prisoners of war for every planeload of wounded Iranian prisoners repatriated by Iraq," Foreign Ministry Undersecretary Nizar Hamdoun said.

French police chiefs cast doubt on Kennedy TV documentary

Israel suspends credentials of three British journalists

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM, Oct 26, (AP): Israel bas suspended the press credentials of three British journalists, charging they violated military censorship by not submitting reports about Army undercover units in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The credentials of Paul Taylor and Steve Weizman of the Reuter news agency and Andrew Whitley of the Financial Times were suspended yesterday pending the outcome of an investigation, said Yoram Ettinger, head of the government press office.

There is an obvious violation of security regulations without relevance to the authenticity of the information," Ettinger told reporters. Military censorship officials filed police complaints and said police would investigate Under Israeli law, journalists must submit reports relating to security matters to military censors. The government has not clearly defined "security matters" and leave the submission of reports to the discretion of correspondents.

Defend As a result of the suspensions, government and Army officials will not grant interviews to Taylor, Weizman and Whitley. A Reuter story written hy Weizman on Sunday said under-

"We stand by the story," said Taylor, 34, the Reuter hureau chief in Israel. Taylor said he did not think the agency violated censorship regulations, but did not elaborate.

Whitley's story on Oct 11 said undercover troops used Arah cars and posed as journalist to detain suspected rioters.

Whitley, 39, said he didn't feel he violated censorship because he based his report on previously published material. He also noted that he reported on the undercover units in the context of a larger story about sronger steps taken by the Army to quell the Palestiman uprising, well into its 11th month. Condemn

"I don't believe I endangered Israel's security by exposing dirty tricks in the West Bank, but believe my security is endangered by these people posing as journalists," Whitley told the Associated Press.

In response to the reports, the Army said in a statement: "Units carry out varied operational activities to preserve security and order, in accordance with the law. There is no uinit in the IDF which is authorised to act, or which acts, against the wellknown rules for opening fire which are grounded in the law."

Taylor has worked for Reuter for 11 years, including postings in Iran, West Germany, France and Belgium. Weizman, 34, who has dual Israeli-British citizeuship, bas worked for Reuter in Israel for 18 months.

Whitley has worked for the Financial Times for 1! years. Before coming to Israel three years ago, he was posted in Iran, France and Brazil.

British commentators expressed deep concern today over Israel's withdrawal of the press credentials of the journalists.

Much of the occupied Gaza Strip and scattered stores in Arah East Jerusalem and the West Bank city of Hebron were shut down today after many Palestinians misread a badly printed underground leaflet declaring a general strike.

In some areas of the West Bank, youths who normally enforce strikes went to merchants yesterday to explain that the strike was suppsoed to be Oct 29 — next Saturday — not Oct 26th.

Seven Arah youths were reported shot and wounded, meanwhile, when clashes erupted between stone-throwers and Israeli troops today in the occupied territories.

Spanish Foreign Minister Francisco Fernandez Ordonez discussed Gulf war peace talks and other Middle East issues today with Kuwait's Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabab Al Ahmed.

Ordooez, the first Spanish foreign minister to visit the northern Gulf state, arrived from Saudi Arabia on a Gulf tour before Spain assumes the European Economic Community (EEC) presidency on Jan 1.

Meanwhile, Spain's Ambassador to Kuwait Juan Jose Arboli today hailed his country's relations with Kuwait and the speech delivered by HH the Amir at the UN General Assembly last

In separate interviews with 'Al Rai Al-Aam' and another local newspaper, Arboli praised the speech delivered by the Amir, saying the speech emphasised Kuwait's credibility and its positive and important role in alleviating the effects of debts of the Third World states and assisting their development projects.

The envoy stressed that relations between Spain and Israel will not undermine the fraternal relations between Madrid and the Arab world. The Arab countries understand the declared policy of Spain concerning Arab rights, be said.

BAHRAN DIGEST Kuwait artist displays paintings

ASIM NAUSHAD KHAN, a prominent Pakistoni artist based in Kuwait, is holding a one-man exhibition of his paintings at the Bahrain Art Society.

The exhibition, the first for the ortist in Bahrain, was opened on Monday by Director of Art and Culture, Hassan Kamal. Khan who has been painting for 19 years, is a specialist in oil portraits. His paintings at the exhibition clearly show his inspiration from Arab culture. The rich Arab environment is depicted vividity by the artist in each of the 40 paintings. He has captured the spirit of the Arab life — whether in the souk or In the desert. There are portraits of carpet-sellers, Arab housewives clad in in the traditional 'abba'. The theme of ordinary people and their daily life runs through his works. Khan is particularly brilliant in portraying people. His figures come olive by his use of rich, bold and attractive colours.

The ortists' versatility enables him to create portraits from old and foded pictures. He has also done some remarkable adaptations of some of the masters of the 19th century.

Khan has been living in Kuwait for 15 years and has his own studio there. He is married with three children. His exhibition in Bahrain in his fifth worldwide. The exhibition Cafe. Though hardly expecting the place to be decked out with steer horns and cartwheels. I did think that both the decor and atmosphere were wide off the mark theme-wise. Were it even intended to appeal to the jeans generation, I doubt that it would fare much better. It is a stylistic hotchpotch of tiled floor, dark wood furniture, copper-cowled lights and motorway-cafe crockery. The place is designed for production-line style eating and to my mind, completely lacks war-mth. Which brings me to the food.

Range

The range of starters is limited to a few soups, Mexican chilli, shrimp cocktail and smoked salmon, which I suppose should not be criticised in view of the fact that the emphasis is meant to be on steaks and burgers. I ordered the Mexican chilli, which was not too hot in any sense of the word! It came as a mildflavoured, lukewarm liquid (so much for oot ordering soup!), which had the sweetness one tends to associate with canned

Our cothusiasm only slightly marred, my guest and I awaited the arrival of the meat course. I had ordered the Fillet Mignon and what I got certainly looked marvellous, but the first forkful was enough to cool my ardour. I have heard of cold cuts but this was getting ridiculous! The fact that there was no evidence of any seasoning did not help matters either. Clearly I was not the only one who was in the mood for murdering a good steak! I thought it was a thorough waste of an otherwise excellent piece of meat. We were offered a choice of French fries, baked potato or rice as an accompaniment, in addition to a complimentary salad from the bar. I opted for the salad on its own and got French fries anyway; my guest asked for rice and got... French fries. No big deal—Ilike French fries, Hove French fries. HOT French fries. I really ought not to have carped about the state of my meal so much and been more sympathetic to my guest, who had the unenviable task of getting to grips with the Mixed Grill. It consisted of a minute chicken leg (or was it perhaps quail?), two chunks of overcooked and woody-textured lamb chop and an equally dessicated since of veal. I will be perfectly frank and say that at KD 2.500, it was an absolute disgrace.

By the time we had reached the end of this chilling experience, neither of us was in any mood to finish up with ice-cream sundaes, which were the only alternative to an unappetising selection of hacked-about and sad-looking items on the dessert table.

The bill for this poor fare was KD 9.150, which I thought was expensive for a restaurant of its type, even if what we attempted o eat had been better prepared. At least the coffee was hot. Restaurant: Jeans

Talks with China

Dalai Lama may alienate Tibetans

By Elizabeth Plsani

NEW DELHI, (Reuter): The Dalai Lama, Tibet's exiled spiritual leader, proposed on Tuesday, that the first official talks with China on the future of Tibet take place in Geneva in January, hut some Tibetans see the talks as a sellout.

The Dalai Lama, in an interview with Reuters at his residence in the north Indian city of Dharmsala on Monday, said he was encouraged by the younger, more open leadership in China.

"If the Chinese leadership were the same as 10 years ago there would be no question of a dialogue. They were like this," he said, clamping his hands over his ears and hreaking into the infectious laugh that punetuates his conversation. He said he would not base the talks on a proposal he made in June to the European Parliament which gave China foreign policy control over an internally selfgoverning Tibet.

Rejected

China rejected the proposal, hut said the Dalai Lama could set a time and place for talks if he dropped the self-rule idea.

Some Tibetans protested that he had already made too many eoncessions to China at the European Parliament in Strasbourg.

"There can be no compromise on the issue of independence, I think the Tibetan people will be very sad and very shocked at these talks," said Lhasang Tsering, president of the radical Tibetan Youth Congress (TYC).

"We are not fighting for a piece of land, we are fighting for a way of life." The Dalai Lama said talks did not constitute compromise. "If I were to make further concessions, the Tibetans might kick out their Dalai Lama," he said, chuckling at the thought, secure in the knowledge they revere him

But he said a massive influx of ethnic Chinese was the main threat. "If it continues, that is the real end of Tibet."

"Any strategies for dealing with the uprising are going to be mere holding actions until the politicians make up their minds," says one leading Israeli defence expert. The divisions that have paralysed Israel's politicians have put Israel's generals in a straight-jacket. This is independence from everyone, Hussein notes: from Israel, which has ruled the area since the 1967 war, and from Jordan, which ruled for the preceding 17 years. Hussein warns that despite the degree of surface calm Israeli troops may be able to res-tore, it would be dangerously sbort-sighted for anyone to think that Mideast stability, much less peace, will be possible without addressing this Palestinian nationalism.

If Hussein seems relieved these days, it is because his action has, at least in theory, cleared the way for those most directly involved in the conflict - the Israelis and Palestinians - to tackle their differences, and to make the difficult decisions necessary for compromise. For the Israelis, says Hussein, this means "recognising the Palestinians and their rights on their soil." For the Palestine Liberation Organisation, it seems "acting in a way that would recognise Israel's right to exist on its soil."

If Hussein seems pessimistic, or at least wary, it is because neither side seems ready to take advantage of the opportunity his summer surprise offered. It is possible, of course, that a superpower nudge toward com-promise might help, a nudge

Much celebration about nothing

DESPITE the absolute failure of some hig hudget multi-star-rers, like Zalzała, Saszish, Makaveera etc. there has been no recession in the number of new "muhurats" and parties in the film world. As a matter of fact there seems to be a lot of celebration without much to celebrate about.

Amitanh Bachchan who has recently been raising a lot of eye-brows ny signing films left and right participated in the auspicious start of yet another ambitious project Hum. The flop actor Romesh Sharma. who has long been forgotten, launched this film with the controversial Mukul Anand as director. Romesh was all beans at the muhurat boasting that he had three aces up his sleeve, namely, Amitahh, Rajnikant and Govinda.

It was whispered that Mithun was the first choice as the second hero hut he refused. He has been playing second fid-dle to lambuji in too many films and is afraid that he may lose his identity like Rishi Kapoor. So Rajnikant stepped in. This is Kimi Katkar's hig chance opposite Amitahh, since the only other heroine is poor little Deepa Sahi. Romesh printed a series of full-page advert-isement's where he described Amitabh as hunted, Rajnikant as unbeaten, and Govinda as magnetic. The three together were described as devastating.

The starting ceremony of Hum at Mehbooh studios was very well attended, and the first shot rather spectacular. The huge set was first kept in total darkness, than there was a earshattering explosion, (the kind they once used, to launch stage dramas). Thereafter Amitahh's booming voice filled the air with "Hum" repeated at least twenty times. The extras then began to echo the word so that hum kept humming in our ears. This was followed by more explosions, smoke, lighting and the set switched to the other side with Rajblkant "attd Govinda. Suddenly all the three heroes began dancing, joined by Kimi, Deepa, GulIn the same week, some other hig films were also started, such as Sawan Ka Mahina of Jaya Prada Movies International.

The producer is the heroine's hrother Raja Bahu and the director is gharwala Kalpatru.

Jaya saw to it that there were no other stars there except herself. The film's hero will be Rishi Kapoor and Raja Bahu has an important role. Another Jaya Prada film to start was Ghar Ki Mahabharat. This is a family drama by writer-director Chander Sharma. Once again brother Raja Bahu is in the cast along with Neeta Puri, Raj Bahhar, Bindu and Kadar Khan. The muhurat was performed at Dariya Mahal, Hero Vinod Khanna appeared for the first shot and delivered a word of warning: "I have come to remove all harassment and injustice." (Nobody asked about the injustice which Vinod is meting out to his producers). Others in the cast are Amrita Singh, Danny, Pran and also Kiran Juneja, who has now become accustomed to being a side heroine or vamp.

As there is a film Akayla being made with Amitabh, someone decided to make Akayh as well. This is old-timer Raja

HAEMORRHOIDS ARE COMMON COMPLAINT

QUESTION: I have been a piles (haemorrhoid) sufferer for many years, but lately I've noticed that they seem to be getting higger. How is this possible, and what can I do about it? ANSWER: Haemorrhoids can be painful and can cause bleeding from the rectum, hut since they occur almost universally in children and adults, they are not considered an abnormality.

Actually haemorrhoids are groups of enlarged veins, both inside and outside the anus, that occur because of an increase in pressure in the abdomen. This pressure is transmitted by connecting veins, causing the haemorrhoidal veins to swell, grow larger and sometimes to protrude from the anus.

The pressure can be the result of many everyday activities, even walking. Straining. during bowel movements, when mild, is considered normal, but can increase with constitution and during episodes of diarrhoea. People who spend long periods of time on the toilet also are at increased risk. In addition, pregnant women may experience problems as the foetus increases the pressure in the abdomen, hut fortunately this is a temporary inconvenience for most.

The most effective means of piles prevention lies in the choice of an appropriate diet. Eating high-fibre foods such as whole-grain hreads and cereals, leafy vegetables and fruits helps soften the stool naturally. In turn, the strain of stool passage is reduced and the pressure on the haemorrhoidal veins is reduced. That may help stop from growing larger and reduce your symptoms.

However, if they suddenly grow painful, or if hleeding increases, it's time to have them examined to be certain that they are really a case of simple baemorrhoids.

OUESTION: I'm puzzled and I'm surc many of your readers may have the same question. Is vaginitis and yeast infection the same condition? How is it treated?

ANSWER: I think you are right: many women are confused about this situation. Actually yeast infection is only one type of vaginitis, which is defined as any inflammation of the mucosal tissue that lines the vagina. The causes of the problem are many and can include infections, changes in hormone halance, mechanical irritation and even allergic reactions.

There are three major types of infection: bacterial, yeast (it goes by the name of candidiasis in medical circles) and trichomoniasis. About 20 per cent to 40 percent of all vaginal infections can he attributed to a yeast infection. The most common complaint is one of itching in the vaginal area. Other problems may include redness and tenderness of external tissue and pain during urination and intercourse. The discharge is usually thick, white and cheesy in nature. Symptoms like these usually demand attention from a physician and the cause can be determined. Once the cause is clear, a choice of medication can be made, and the prescription of an antifungal agent, such as terconazole, in either cream or suppository form, can rapidly cure the infection and alleviate the symptoms. Then it will be up to you and your physician to try to determine the source of your infection, so that you can you take all the steps necessary and avoid the recurrence of this most uncomfortable peace environmental organisation wanted to make a statement about acid rain and air pollution in a certain neighbourhood, so they camped out on the catwalks of a smelter smokestack. They climbed up early one morning. But it was around noon before anyone saw them up there. There was too much smog.

Athens, Georgia: Students of all ages often use the old excuse: "The dog ate my homework." But, Christine Swartout, a student at the University of Georgia, told her professor she was 40 minutes late for class because a dog with three legs had held her hostage inside her home. She claimed that she was just leaving her campus apartment when she saw a very mean, three-legged dog in front of her door snarling at her. She called campus security, and they dispatched a dog-catcher to Swartout's apartment, but the beast had

Some doggone story.

Syracuse, New York:

Many people have memories of those good old school days, writing on the blackboard: 'I will not talk in class' 500 times. But the National Education Association of New York took a dim view of that as a punishment for students. Members adopted a non-binding resolution banning such punishment on grounds that it takes the fun out of words and inhibits desired attitudes and essential communication skills.

Union spokeswoman Linda Rosenblatt said she had heard of one student who had to write his name 2,000 times simply because he had forgotten to put his name on a homework assig-

Some English teachers said if the resolution is adopted, they will retaliate by making certain students do math problems or build bookshelves. The resolution carried no enforcement power.

London, England: The Reverend Donald Sherriff kept his clothes on while he conducted a special service for a hundred members of a nudist eluh, he said, "I wasn't embarrassed at all."

There was a slight problem when the collection plate was passed around, though. Berlin, West Germany:

A man was taking a walk along the street, minding his own husiness, when be was hit hy a flying dog. Emergency medical teams say the dog fell out of a window four storeys high. Neither the dog nor the man was seriously burt. No word on what kind of dog it was. Probably an Airedale.

Madrid, Spain: It was a grim time when there were no oles in Spain because of a strike by builfighters' assistants. The matadors had the responsibility of hiring their own assistants, who demanded a 20 per cent raise. But the matadors said they just didn't have the extra money.

Everyone was on the horns of Hibbing, Minnesota:

Many people hold down two jobs to make ends meet. But Jim Steele is unique. He's the town's deputy tax assessor and also a grave-digger.

"I'll see everyone in town," he said, "Sooner or later." We hope it's later. London, England: When Prince William, the infant son of Prince Charles and Princess Diana, took his first wohhly steps, the weekly tabloid News of the World ran a story about it. The newspaper said that neither of the youngster's parents was present for the event, which was described as 'the Prince's staggering achievement'. Excerpted from Kickers: All the News That Didn't Fit by John Bohannon, Ballantine Books, 1988, $3.50.

Bridge is a logical game. If you can draw the right conclusion from a particular play, it will usually point you in the winning direction.

South judged his hand well. His partner's bidding virtually hlueprinted the fact that North held a singleton heart. Therefore, South's honor cards in his partner's suits greatly increased the value of his hand, so he elected to gamble out a small slam in spades.

West also realized that dummy was going to be short in hearts, so he led a trump to cut down the enemy ruffing power. The table's queen won the first trick, and declarer continued by running the ten. West grabbed the king and shot back another trump, and declarer found he had only 11 tricks. He tried the diamond finesse-to no avail.

Had declarer assumed that West was unlikely to have led a singleton trump, he could have guaranteed the contract as soon as East followed to the second trick. The location of the king was unimportant. Declarer should have risen with the ace and, leaving the king outstanding, started on the clubs. As long as that suit is no worse than 4-2, the contract is safe. On the third club declarer discards a diamond, and he is in control. West can score his master trump whenever he pleases, hut thanks to a heart ruff in dummy declarer will score 10 tricks in the hlack suits and the two red aces.

Ford posts record profit for third quarter

DFARBORN, Mich., Oct 26, (Reuter): Ford Motor Company today reported a third-quarter profit of $865 million, the most ever for a US car maker in the July-September period. It was Ford's 10th record quarter in a row. Net income was up sharply from the $703 million of last year. Revenues rose to $17.7 billion from 15.2 billion. Ford, first of the big three US car makers to report financial results for the quarter, said it earned $1.78 per share, compared with $1.38 a year earlier. The performance fell shurt of an all-time quarterly record, set hy Furd in the second quarter of 1988 when it earned $3.43 per share, nr $1.66 billion. Ford's earnings gain was driven by a strong performance in overseas operations. Outside the United States, Ford said its earnings jumped to $384 million from 110 million in the same period last year, fuelled by improvements in Latin America, Europe and Canada. Its US earnings dropped to $472 million from 593 million. While it gained higher car and truck market shares, other factors in the US operation hurt results. Earnings were lower at Ford's financial services group, costs rose for developing and introducing new products, and production capacity fell due to an assembly plant changeover to build the restyled Ford Thunderhird and Mercury Cougar. Ford chairman Donald Petersensaid the car maker expected the introduction of these new products in the fourth quarter to strengthen its North American line of cars and trucks. Ford said its share of the US car market in the third quarter was 21.3 per cent, up 0.9 point from a year ago. Its truck share was 28.9 per cent, a one-point rise. Furd said its cash position at the end of the third quarter stood at $9.3 billion, down from 10.2 billion at the beginning of the period. The drop was due mainly to increased capital expenditures.

Shell earnings slump

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct 26, (AP): Shell Oil Cn. said yesterday its third quarter earnings dropped 16 per cent from the same period a year ago because of lower crude oil prices. For the three months ending Sept 20, Shell posted a net income of $352 million, a decrease from the 420 million recorded during the same quarter in 1987. Revenues were $5.4 billion for the third quarter, down from 5.7 billion marked for the same period last year. Shell does not release pre-share figures because the company is o wholly owned subsidiary of Royal Dutch Shell based in the Netherlands. 'For the quarter, the earnings decrease mainly reflected lower crude oil prices, which mure than offset the benefits of strong performances in our oil and chemical products businesses. Record performances by those downstream businesses were the major factors contributing to the nine-month earnings improvement," Shell president Frank H. Richardson said. For the nine months of 1988, Shell recorded earnings of $1.8 billion, including a one-time positive adjustment of $900 million as a result of adopting a new accounting method on income taxes in the first quarter. Excluding this adjustment, the nine-month income from operations was 961 million, a 21 per cent increase from the 795 million recorded during the nine-month period in 1987. Revenues for the first nine months in 1988 were $16 billion, a 4.6 per cent increase from the 15.3 billion in 1987. Richardson said oil and gas exploration and production earnings for the quarter were $22 million, a 92 per cent decrease from the same 1987 period. Nine-month income from nperations was 222 million, a 58 per cent decrease from last year.

TOKYO, Oct 26, (Reuter): Japanese electronics and optical companies are scrambling to sell still video cameras — a new breed that needs no film, no darkroom and little patience, company spokesmen said.

The cameras use floppy discs instead of film, and pictures can be instantly played back onto a television or a special printer. Industry analysts expect these 'no film' models will one day usurp the position of the single lens reflex camera as the serious photographer's favourite. "Instant gratification — that's what it's called," said Darryl Whitten, vice-president of Prudential-Bache Securities in Spokesmen for Sony and other companies said the US price for their cameras would be set independently and not be a direct conversion of the Japanese price. Canon's version - in which the player is incorporated into the camera — costs 98,000 yen ($759) plus 20,000 yen ($155) for accessories. Those prices could lure a few buyers, but would probably need to be slashed by almost a half before the cameras attract a wide following, analysis said. "The prices need to come down much more and the picture resolution needs to be brought much nearer to that of film pic-tures," said Naoki Sato, elec-tronics analyst at Schroder Securities (Japan).

"If the companies can resolve these problems, then the market will explode," Sato said. "But I think we will have to wait two or three years.' "Eventually, the still video market could be the size of the single lens reflex market," said Prudential-Bache's Whitten. A single lens reflex (SLR) camera, preferred by serious photographers partly because of its ability to carry a number of interchangeable, high-quality lenses, costs about 60,000 yen ($465) at the cheaper end of the scale in Japan. Sales of SLRs have been declining. In the year ended March 31, 1988, a total of 4.16 million were sold here, compared with 7.5 million in the year to March 31, 1982.

Nevertheless, they are hig husiness for companies such as Nikon and Minolta where cameras accounted for about 44 per cent and 51 per cent of total sales during the 1987 year. Analysts said Nikon leads in photojournalists in Japan use their system. But the camera alone costs 450,000 yen ($3,488). Konica and Casio have both decided to make 5,000 still video cameras a month. Their models cost roughly 130,000 yen ($1,000) with the players included, spokesmen for the companies said. Minolta has engineered a system costing 198,000 yen ($1,500).

Landon Stock Market Report

U.K. STOCKS HIXED TO FIRM IN HESITANT LATE TRADE LONDON, OCT 26, REUTER - SHARE PRICES WERE MIXED BUT SHOUTING A FIRMER BIAS IN VERT QUIET LATE TRADING WITH INVESTORS CAUTIOUS AHEAD OF THURSDAY'S U.K. SEPTEMBER BALANCE OF PAYMENTS DATA. DEALERS SAID YESTERDAT'S REFERRAL OF THE MINORCO BIO FOR CONS GOLD ALSO CONTINUED TO DAMPEH MUCH OF THE SPECULATIVE DEMAND WHICH PUSHED SHARES AHEAD RECENTLY.

A SHARP EARLY FALL ON WALL STREET DID LITTLE TO HELP SENTIMENT DESPITE NEW YORK'S LATER RALLT. THE U.K. MARKET WAS LEF1 TO STAGNATE FOR THE AFTERNOON.

BY 1555 GMY THE FTSE 100 INDEX WAS 4.1 POINTS UP AT 1,851.9. COMMENTS FROM CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER HIGEL LAWSON IN PARLIAMENT YESTERDAY THAT HE WAS COMMITTED TO KEEPING INTEREST RATES HIGH AND WOULD NOT SUFFER A DEPRECIATION IN THE POUND HELPED UNDERPIH EQUITY PRICES THIS MORHING, DEALERS SAIO.

OPERATORS REMAIN HESITANT ABOUT TOMORROW'S BALANCE OF PAYMENTS OATA IN CASE THE CURRENT ACCOUNT DEFICIT WIDENS SIGNIFICANTLI FROM THE AUGUST GAP OF 1.3 BILLION STG.
THE WARKET IS PREPARED FOR A REPEAT OF AUGUST'S FIGURE, WHICH WAS THE SECOND-LARGEST EVER RECORDED, BUT IF IT IS SIGNIFICANTLY GREATER THEY SAY THE POUND COULD FALL AND PUT FRESH UPWARD PRESSURE ON BASE RATES.

London Gold

LONDON, OCT 26, REUTER - GOLD EASED BELOW THE DAY'S HIGH TO FIX AT 407.40 DLRS AN OUNCE, COMPARED WITH A MORHING SETTLEMERT OF 407.50 OLRS AND TUESDAT'S CLOSE OF 406.50/407.00. GOLD TOUCHED A NIGH OF AROUND 408.50 OLRS AT ONE STAGE AS THE DOLLAR WEAKENED OH A SMALLER THAN EXPECTED 2.2 PCT RISE IH THE U.S. THIRD QUARTER GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT, DEALERS SAID. HOMEVER, THE RISE LACKED FOLLOW-THROUGH IN WHAT IS STILL A THIN MARKET, ALTHOUGH STEADIER OIL PRICES PREVENTED THE MARKET SLIPPING TOO FAR AND KEPT THE METAL TO A MARROW RANGE, THEY

GOLD HAD OPENED AT 407.00/407.50 DLRS.

London Money Market

LONDON, OCT 26, REUTER - MONET MARKET INTEREST RATES, HAVING POSTED 1/16 POINT GAINS THIS MORNING, STOOD LITTLE CHANGED FROM YESTERDAY'S LEVELS IN LATE TRADING AFTER NEWS OF MUCH SMALLER THAN EXPECTED 2.2 PCT GROWTN IN THIRD QUARTER U.S. GNP.
ONE TRADER SAID, "IT LOOKS AS THOUGH SLOWER GROWTH IN THE U.S. MEANS NO HIKE IN THEIR RATES THIS SIDE OF THE NEW

ADMINISTRATION AND THAT TOOK SOME PRESSURE OFF OUR MARKET." DEALERS SAID THE MARKET REMAINED NERVOUS AHEAD OF TOMORROW'S U.K. TRADE AND CURRENT ACCOUNT FIGURES FOR SEPTEMBER. LARGER THAN EXPECTED DEFICITS COULD PUSH STERLING LOWER AND MAKE FOR UPWARDS PRESSURE IN THE MONEY MARKET.

EEC leaders urged to clarify position on trade rules

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct 26, (AP): Leaders of the 12 European Economic Community nations must defuse fears of their trade partners the EEC will turn protectionist under its single market project, Greek Deputy Foreign Minister Theodorus Pangalos said yesterday. Pangalos said Greece planned to seek a statement to that effect from the 12 EEC leaders, due to meet Dec 2-3 on the Greek resort island of Rhodes.

"We are not huilding a closed European space, what Americans call a fortress Europe," he said after presiding at a two-day EEC foreign ministers meeting.

Japan and the United States have raised fears that the EEC's plan for a single, frontier-free Europe by 1992 will lead the EEC to cut imports so as to boost iotra-EEC trade.

In 1987, the United States and Japan sold goods worth $108.3 billion in the EEC, more than 25 per cent of all EEC imports.

The EEC summit "should clarify misuoderstandings" in the United States and Japan about the EEC internal market project, Pangalos said.

The project has also raised questions from British Prime.

Pangalos said bedoubted British concerns would make for a contentious summit. "Whether or not to set up a European government now is not on the agenda," he said.

"This is going too fast. There is no institutional problem pending. I don't think a debate on this issue will take place at the sum-

The EEC's single market plan is contained in a treaty that took effect in 1987. It also calls for greater co-operation in political and monetary matters. Dispute

The EEC foreign minister failed to resolve a dispute over the implementation of plans to double the EEC's regioos! development funds to 14 billioo. European currency units ($16.1 billion) by 1993.

Pangalos also said a cootroversial proposal to end trade preferences for Saudi Arabian petrochemicals, which amount to 20 per ent of all EEC imports of petrochemicals, remained unsolved.

Kuwait dinar deposit rates maintain firming trend

KUWAIT, Oct 26, (Reuter): Kuwaiti dinar deposit rates maintained a week-long firming trend today as banks continued to huy dollars, seeing strength in the US currency. Reports the Central Bank had Dealers said fixed period rates declined by up to 1/8 of a point after some banks lent large amounts of one and two-month fuods. But they said overall business was relatively thin, continuing a trend seen during the past few days.

Investment abroad rises

US firms gearing up to boost their overseas holdings

NEW YORK, Oct 26, (Reuter): Despite heated rhetoric about a foreign invasion of corporate America, US direct investment abroad is higher than foreign investment here and American companies are gearing up to increase their overseas holdings.

A recent survey by the Commerce Department showed American companies plan to spend $42.3 billion this year and $44.1 billion in 1989 to expand their business a broad.

Interest "The climate is right now (to invest overseas)," said James Greene of the conference board, a private husiness research group in New York. "Two years ago it was not.'

Foremost among the factors contributing to renewed US interest in foreign investments is the European Economic Community's plan to create a single market by 1292. Many US companies, seeking a foothold inside Europe ahead of the planned integration, are eyeing European "They are really trying to protect their position," said Sara Johnson, senior economist with Data Resources Inc.

US firms plan to spend $19.7 billion on investments in the 12country Community this year and $20 billion in 1989, after spending $16.1 billion in 1987. according to the department's

In September, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing said it planned to buy France's Spontex SA, which makes synthetic sponges, in order to be wellpositioned by 1992. Facilities

Other companies are planning to acquire facilities and companies in Spain and Portugal, the newest EEC members, to take advantage of the cheap labour costs in those countries.

Other factors encouraging US firms to invest a broad include the gradual opening of the potentially huge Soviet, Chinese and Indian markets, Greene said. In addition, Greene noted:

"American companies cannot export much to Japan. Japan is not an export market, so companies are moving there, investing on a long-term strategy, the same way they did in Europe in the 1960s."

The Department's survey showed American firms plan to boost capital outlays in Japan by 42 per cent, to $1.7 billion this year, up from 1.2 billion in 1987. In 1989 they plan to spend $2.3

Weakness

To a large extent the dollar's weakness against major currencies hampers US companies from investing more aggressively in many parts of the world.

Many economists say the White House's plan to reduce the US trade deficit by keeping the dollar low will become increasingly controversial because it is the dollar's weakness that has made possible a slew of US company takeovers by foreigners.

In their book "Buying into America," authors Martin and Susan Tolchin say the United States is becoming dangerously over-dependent on foreign

But the picture is not as bleak as some economists and politicians paint it. US direct investment abroad stood at $309 billion last year, up from $211.5 billion in 1984. Foreign direct investment in the United States, meanwhile, came to $262 billion

Assets

A few economists note that because assets are valued at their initial purchase price, US hold-ings — many of which were acquired in the 1960s — may be Even last year, when the dollar was weak, US direct investment abroad exceeded foreign investment in the United States.

Foreign investment in the United States as well as US direct investment abroad are expected to rise as more firms pursue a strategy of creating or expanding production centres inside the target market, economists say. Commerce Department economists say 75 per cent of last year's US investments were financed by overseas profits.

"We are no longer capital exporters," said Data Resources' Johnson, in contrast with the US role in the 1960s and again in the 1980s when the dollar was

Dollar dips on news of slowing US boom

LONDON, Oct 26, (Reuter): News that the US economy slowed in the summer sent the dollar skidding more than oneand-a-half West German pfennigs today to its lowest in four Wall Street stocks dipped, too. A dollar sell-off followed the release of figures in Washington showing the rate of expansion of the US Gross National Product was 2.2 per cent in the July to September period after three per cent in the previous quarter.

"The figures were disappointing. The trend is down," said a currency dealer in Europe where thedollar closed at 1.7740 marks.

Earlier today it fetched 1.7910. It remains well above an alltime low at which it began the year, at 1.56 marks, but down from 1.92 touched during a powerful rally in August.

Wall Street's blue chip Dow Jones Industrial average shed almost 15 points before rallying to stand six down at 2,167 in the early New York afternoon.

Fading Prudential Bache analyst Hildegard Zagorsky said in New York "maybe people are taking the lower-than-expected Gross National Product as a sign that the economy is fading." She said stocks also fell because of the weak the dollar. The dollar also ended in London lower against Japan's yen, worth 125.80 after 126.65 yester-

Earlier in the trading day, the Tokyo and Frankfurt stock markets advanced.

Dealers

In London share prices were mixed but showing a firmer bias in very quiet late trading with investors cautious ahead of Thursday's UK September balance of payments data.

Dealers said yesterday's Referral of the Minorco bid for Cons Gold also continued to dampen mucb of the speculative demand which pushed shares ahead recently.

A sharp early fall on Wall Street did little to help sentiment despite New York's later rally. The UK market was left to stagnate for the afternoon.

By 1555 GMT the FTSE 100 index was 4.1 points up at 1,851.9.

Comments from Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson in parliament yesterday that he was committed to keeping interest rates high and would not suffer a depreciation in the pound helped underpin equity prices this morning, dealers said.

Operators remain hesitant about tomorrow's balance of payments data in case the current account deficit widens significantly from the August gap of $1.3 billion.

Cons Gold shares recovered 12p of yesterday's 105p fall to stand at 1,151 after market rumours that Minorco had sold its near 30 per cent stake to Noranda of Canada.

Analysts said Cons Gold's strength reflected speculation that any potential bidder for Minorco's stake could possibly make an offer for Cons Gold. However, analysts are sceptical that such a move is on the cards.

A Noranda official later denied the group was discussing with Minorco the possible purchase of its stake.

Minorco holds more than 60 million Cons Gold shares, far in excess of the number which have changed hands so far today. Losses Lonrho reversed yesterday's losses to stand 23p higher at 377 on rumours Bond Corp was adding to its 15 per cent stake in the company. It was the second most active issue with 23.7 million shares traded and dealers noted a number of two million share blocks going through.

Analysts said it was most likely bond was buying and this was reviving speculation that a bid for Lonrbo was on the cards.

They thought bond would try to raise its stake to around 25 per cent and then hold onto it. Bond's current seven billion Australian dollars of debt is thought likely to restrain it from launchat eight. ing a full bid for some time.

hits West German government

BONN, Oct 26, (Reuter): A senior member of Chancellor Helmut Kohl's coalition vowed today to fight plans to sell Tornado fighters to Jordan, saying they violated West German laws banning arms sales to areas of conflict.

Government sources said opposition within the ruling three-party coalition could scuttle financing for the sale of the aircraft, made by a British-West German-Italian consortium.

Otto Lambsdorff, head of the liberal junior partners in Kohl's centre-right cabinet, said his Free Democrats (FDP) opposed a government plan to have Federal Credit Agency KFW guarantee the aircrast sale.

"Economic backing for such a delivery to a country at war with Israel is totally unacceptable to the FDP," Lambsdorff told reporters.

Britain, West Germany and Italy share profits from any sale of Torhados.

Britain announced in March it would deliver Tornados to Jordan for about £400 million ($675 million). The number of fighters was unspecified but reports put it

Lambsdorff said the government had told Britain it could not issue outright state export credits for the Tornado sale to Jordan. Instead, Bonn sought to satisfy the British by having KFW assume the interest-rate risk on a 350-million-mark ($195-million) bank credit for the sale, KFW sources said. KFW would also have contributed 48 million marks ($27 million) to help Jor-

Dear Junior Readers,

As if we have not cuffered enough with dust storms, the white insect invasion and the recent sticky weather, it looks like we should be getting ourselves ready for the possible arrival of swarms of locusts. Nothing is done by haives in the Guit, is it?

isuppose it would be quite a sight --- huge black clouds of the things sweeping across the country, chomping their way through the plant life as they go. But for countries which depend on the food they can grow, it must be the most awful thing to see all their past hard work and future supplies of vegetables and cereals destroyed so fast and so completely. At least here there is not that worry, because so little is grown anyway. All the same, the locusts would not be particularly welcome, officugh I hear that some people consider them a great delicacy and actually eat them!

So, you never know, but if they do come, we could start seeing a whole range of exciting new dishes at the local restaurants: locust kebabs, locustburgers, locust ice-cream sundaes (with chocolate scuce of course) ... the possibilities are encless! I for one will not be tasting any of the specialities — they will be covered in insecticide poison and besides, I have just decided to become a vegetarian!

Retold by Stephen Corrin

ONCE upon a time there lived a poor old widow and her two daughters in a little cottage by the meadow.

She had a small farm with some pigs, a cow called Daisy, a sheep called Molly, seven fine-looking hens and a magnificent rooster called Chanticleer. He really was a grandlooking bird, with a comb as red as flaming fire, a coal-black beak and feathers glowing bright with many colours. How fine he looked as he strutted proud and upright in the farmyard.

No other rooster in the land could crow as loudly or as beautifully as Chanticleer, and the old widow and her two daughters were very proud of him. One night Chanticleer had a strange dream and it worried him so much that he woke up his wife Pertelotte to tell her all about

'I've had a really nasty dream, my dear,' he said. 'I was walking up and down the yard when I saw a strange animal come racing towards me. It was brownish-reddish colour, but it had a kind of black fur above its eyes and its loog bushy tail was jetblack too. Its eyes gleamed like coals of fire and just as it was about to seize me in its jaws I woke up.'

'Shame on you, husband,' cried Pertelotte. 'Fancy a great strong rooster like you being afraid of dreams. Dreams don't mean a thing.' And she closed her eyes and went back to sleep again. Chan-ticleer felt a wee bit shamed, but though he didn't bother Pertelotte any more he feared secretly that his dream might come true.

The next morning Chanticleer was strutting proudly round the farmyard followed by Pertelotte and the six hens. But oot very far away in a bed of cabbages, a big red fox lay io hiding, waiting to pounce upon Chanticleer. Chanticleer had strutted oo ahead of the hens and suddenly he caught a glimpse of the fox's face. It reminded him of the animal he had seen in his dream and he was just about to run away when the sly fox called out:

'Good morning, Sir Chanticleer, don't run away. I am your friend and I was the friend of your father before you. Whenever I hear your fine voice crowing in the morning I remember your father, who had a wonderful voice like yours. He often used to sing to me when I asked him to, for I did admire his voice. You could hear it for miles around, over hill and dale, just like yours. Won't you please sing for me, just this once? Just like your dear father did, with your eyes tightly closed, standing on your tip-toes and your neck stretched right out. Please sing for me, just this once, Sir Chanticleer.'

You may well imagine. Chanticleer was delighted to hear all these oice remarks about his voice. for he was secretly very proud of it and thought there ws oo other rooster to compare with him. So for the moment he forgot all about his bad dream and his fear of the fox, and

'Yes, Mr Fox, I will sing for you.

And so standing high upon his toes, and stretching his oeck right out, aod closing his eyes tight, and opeoing his coal-hlack beak, he began to sing with all his might: 'Cock-a-doodie-doo!.

At that instant the sly fox leapt up, grabbed him by his oeck, flung him over his back and raced off into the woods.

When Pertelotte saw that her beloved Chanticleer had disappeared she started cackling at the top of her voice and running this way and that in great excitement. And all the other hens started to do likewise. And when the old widow and her two daughters heard all the noise in the farmyard they too came running out. And they all started running after Mr Fox, whom they could see galloping off in the distaoce with Chaoticleer flung over his back. Soon they were joined by the ducks and geese from the pood and all the bees from the bee-hives, and hy Talbot and Shaggy, the sticks in the air. Aod wheo Chanticleer saw all the great crowd that was chasing Mr Fox, he took courage and said to Mr Fox:

two collie-dogs belonging to Farmer Giles, the oext door oeighbour, and hy

Farmer Giles himself. And his two farm haods. Jenkins and Humphrey, joined io the chase, shouting fearful cries and waving long

'l say, Mr Fox, why don't you turn round and teil all those silly people

And Mr Fox, seeing that he made a great mistake in opening his mouth, called out to Chanticleer:

'Come down, my friend. I'm sorry I scared you. I must have grabbed you too hard when I caught hold of you. Come down again, I won't hurt you this time.'

But Chanticleer was not to be fooled again. And turning to Mr Fox he said: 'Oh no, Mr Fox, you'll oever get me again. You'll never catch me gain with my eyes shut.' And then he flew down and rao back to Pertelotte and the old widow. And everybody was very happy to have him back safe and sound once more.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA DEFEAT TOURISTS

Western Australia recovered well from losing Mike Veletta and Tom Moody in the first over from Patterson. Geoff Marsb and captain Graeme Wood steadied the inmings with a third wicket partnership of 81 before Wood was lbw to medium-pacer Carl Hooper for 41.

Hooper, who earlier scored a scintillating 45, finished with two for 31 off his six overs, his second wicket coming from a superb return catch to dismiss Wayne Andrews for 18.

However, the West Indian pace attack was unusually wayward, bowling 10 wides and five no balls. Malcolm Marshall, playing his first international since the tour of England, did not take a wicket but gave away four wides and a no ball.

The match, originally a day/ night game, was reduced to 30 overs from the scheduled 50 because of a power strike. Tour captain Viv Richards, still suffer-

Alderman, back in Test contentioo after serving a three-year suspension for touring South Africa, sent back Desmond Haynes for nought with the score oo one thanks to a simple catch by wicketkeeper Tim Zoehrer. Seveo runs later Richie Richardson departed, also for a duck, after an ugly drive gave Geoff Marsh a catch in the slips off Alderman. However, Greenidge steadied the innings while Hooper made merry, hitting five fours and two sixes. Greenidge was finally dis-

MELBOURNE, Oct 26, (Reuter): Victorian Cricket Association president Ray Steele said today he had accepted an invitation to take part in South Africa's cricket centenary celehrations next March.
South African Cricket

Association secretary Ali Bacher has invited more than 40 former Australian players and adminis-trators, including Sir Donald Bradman and Australian Cricke! Board chairman Malcolm Gray, to celebrate the centenary of cricket in South Africa.

Steele, who managed several Australian cricket tnurs of England and Pakistan, told reporters: "I would like to go to South Africa to see what they

"t am very sympathetic with cricket officials in South Africa. They are trying bard to get multiracial cricket and are defying the government in certain areas. Gray said he had not decided whether to accept the invitation.

"We have plenty on our plate for the coming season and March is a long way off to me," he said. Veteran Australian captain Lindsay Hassett said be had also accepted the invitation. Bradman has not made any public comment.

Former Australian Test cricket captains Bob Simpson and Ian Chappell have rejected their invitations.

Accept Simpson said his commitments as Australian selector and coach made it impossible to accept while Chappell said his job as a sports commentator would keep him away. Chappell said he was sympathetic to Bacher's attempt to integrate cricket with opportunities for blacks to play, although he opposed apartheid.

Australia's Lahour government opposes sporting links with South Africa but does not seek to prevent individuals travelling there.

Australian players who took part in two rebel cricket tours of South Africa were banned from Test cricket for three years by cricket officials.

Stage set for Kuwait Powerboat Race

By Gail Seery

THE 3rd Bi-annual Kuwait Offshore Powerboat Race starts tomorrow from in front of the Messilah Beach Hotel at 1 pm. Scrutineering will be at Sha'ab slipway from 9 am to 12 noon the same morning, and this will provide an opportunity to see all the boats out of the water.

During scrutineering all boats will be checked to ensure that they conform to regulations, and that all safety equipment is present. Once they have passed, they will be taken into the water via the slipway.

Procedure

Last night drivers were hriefed by chief organiser Wael Khoury at the Messilah Beach Hotel. He explained the race regulations and procedure to the participants.
Only thirteen boats have registered for the race, which is the same as last time. There are two fewer hoats from Dubai, hut more newcomers from Kuwait. Despite the race being small, the boats are of a very high standard. In June it was only the boats from Dubai, Khalifa Al Qutami's Tigercat and Mishal Al Jarallah's Cougar which could really be called racing boats.

This time most of the boats are catamarans, either Tigercats or Cougars, so a glimpse of a mono-

From Messilah Beach Hotel the boats will head down the coast, turning out to sea near the Gazelle club. The second turn is some way out to sea, in the Messilah area. Turn three takes the competitors in towards Kuwait Bay and a fourth turn brings the boats nearer shore. Then they will race back along the coast, back to turning point I, where they will make a complete turn and race back for the finish line.

Having learned from last time's mistakes, and from the advice of such seasoned campaigners as Grant Wilson of Cougar, the organisers decided that this time the boats would not be heading far out to sea. On the other hand, with no less than seven turns to be taken in the correct sequence and direction, the element of navigation will be

The race winner would appear to depend very much on tomorrow's weather conditions. If the sea is calm, it will be the lighter, shorter craft which will have the edge. These include the boats driven by Khaled Bakhit, Hossam Al Sayafe and Khalifa Al Qutami, as well as a 25ft Cougar with 2.4 e.f.i. engines.

Higher waves will give some advantage to Mishal Al Jarallah. Khaled Al Khaled and Sheikh Basel in their 27 catamarans, and of course to the huge yellow Emirates boat, driven by Salem Juma and weighing in at 2 tons. This boat is powered by two 400hp + modified engines, but has not performed well in recent outings. However in rough weather its weight will give it stability. The only thing that is certain is that the race will be very strongly contested indeed. For those who want to see the start and finish of the race, there will be commentary throughout, and the Messilah Beach Hotel, fast developing a reputation as one of Kuwait's leading sports hotels, has arranged a series of sea events for the same day.
